Chapter 1 by Feyre Archeron

The sirens turned on, I slowly pulled over. My head pounding with questions and answers. I started to sweat badly. The officer that got out of the police car he looked familiar. As he slowly walked to my car I got out my drivers license and registration and tried to calm down before I blew up. I started to panic. He was getting closer and closer by the second.

My heart stopped when I knocked on the window. I completely forgot to roll down the window. I struggled to find the button with my eyes fixed on the officer when I finally found the button I rolled the window down.

I gulped as he said "license and registration please" I handed it over thinking I wasn't speeding, my tags might be over due, but I don't think they are. He walked to his vehicle, didn't come back for a while. When he finally came back he had me step out of the truck.

I walked over to the hood of his police truck and leaned against the hood and put my hands behind my back. He handcuffed me and put me in the back of the police car. My boyfriend walked up to the policeman and was talking to him(obviously I couldn't hear a single thing through my tears)

The police officer opened the door and my boyfriend started to talk to me very slowly and soothing. He reached into his pocket and pulled out a very small box. I immediately new what was about to happen. I started to ball even harder before he could manage to get the words out of his mouth.

The police officer unhand-cuffed me and let me out of the car. My boyfriend was now on one knee and saying "Janette Will You Marry Me?" I screamed in tears and yelled "Yes Of Course I Will!!" I was so surprised.
